Written Responses

The in-class activities were helpful in helping me understand the concepts from the lectures. The readings were also helpful in applying the concepts from lecture to real world scenarios, but some of the readings were hard to understand.

I found the in class lectures / discussions quite interesting and helpful to my understanding of the concepts in the course.

I think the in class discussions really helped to develop my understanding of for the materials in this course.

The in class discussions were most helpful.

Class seminars and weekly news forum help engage my thinking and application of concepts learned in class current event around the world.

class readings, they are helpful for understanding things outside og the lecture

My favorite activities were class discussions where Prof. Long sat with us and we talked about the lecture topic in class for that day.

I really loved the in class games -- they got the lesson across effectively and made class really engaging. Class discussions and readings were also really helpful.

In class lecture slides and discussions were most helpful.

The games help me understand the economic concepts that is being covered in class.

I think the class discussion was very helpful to discuss about topics we were confused on.

What activities of the course were most helpful for you, and why? 26

What forms of feedback from your instructor were most helpful for you, and why? 26

In class discussions really helped me because I learned a lot from others' ideas, which helped form my own perspective towards a topic.

Lectures provided time to learn about topics both in application and theoretical

I found the in class discussions very helpful. I think lectures were less helpful because it didn't engage the class.

It was extremely helpful to pair off and work in groups. I really enjoyed when Prof. Long asked us questions during class so we were able to participate. When we did writing workshops it was extremely helpful to get peer feedback on our papers. The class was uniquely structured in that we wrote a five page midterm paper, and for our final paper were able to expand our midterm paper to 10 pages (five more pages). This was extremely beneficial as we were able to expand our ideas from the previous paper, and improve our logic, structure etc. It also made the workload a lot more manageable as we split up the 10 pages of writing over the whole semester, instead of just in the last week. I really liked this structure. It was also very helpful to have an initial presentation on a paper, that we were able to practice for our final presentation.

The weekly readings helped me reinforce key concepts that I was learning in class.

The lectures at the beginning of the semester were most helpful for me. These lectures about environmental economics were delivered in a way that made learning the content really engaging and motivating.

I really enjoyed the case studies that Prof. Long brought up in class multiple times and it really helped me understand some topics and concepts in econ that were hard to understand. There were also plenty of opportunities to discuss with classmates which I think made for a really connected class.

Professor Long was great at creating a collaborative environment within the class that made every activity productive and helpful. We did discussions almost every class that really helped ensure understanding in a low-pressure environment. I am usually not a fan of discussions in class, but they were very helpful in this course. The discussion posts/reading reflections were also great ways to learn from external articles that helped me see real-world applications. The homework was always very doable but helpful to learn from.

The open ended nature of the research panel presentation hosted many opportunities for investigating areas of research students were invested in, encouraging a fresh opportunity to see how topics in class were applied in the real world.

I think that the lectures that were given as well as the activities that we were doing during those lectures were really helpful in understanding the material and applying it to other things in the real world. I also liked the weekly readings as they weren't too time consuming and they allowed us to see how what we learned during the week could be applied to the real world which I think was helpful.

I like the lecture style a lot; it's very engaging. Peer review can be a little hit or miss depending on the person, but there is no reasonable way for the instructor to fix this. I also enjoyed the weekly reading response since it was a good way to keep up with the class and reflect on our progress. The readings I thought were pretty good overall, but I wish we did more data analysis stuff since we all have at least some experience with data analysis from core biology.

I thought the interactive lectures were the most helpful aspect of the class for me.

small group discussions, readings, most lectures

Learning the economics at the beginning of the course.

I loved the lectures where Prof. Long talked about real world issues and applications of what we were learning, some of them really made me reevaluate how I viewed our current society. Please have more of those case analyses.

How did the learning environment affect your learning?

Written comments on drafts were helpful in identifying what needed fixing. In-person meetings were also helpful because it let me ask direct and clarifying questions.

I found the feedback provided by my instructor on my written assignments and projects quite helpful in helping me better understand the main themes of the course, improve my ability to write research papers, and better the quality of my assignments.

Written comments from my instructor were most helpful to me as they provided a lot of insight on what I needed to focus on and what I should do differently.

In person meetings and emails were extremely helpful.

Individual feedback through meetings both in person and on zoom were most helpful in person discussion

Prof. Long puts so much effort into reading our work and providing thoughtful, suggestive feedback through written comments. Her comments were always telling me what I needed to improve on and what steps I could take to do this,

I really appreciated all the detailed feedback on written assignments, like my essays and annotations. They really helped me understand the material better.

Comments on papers were really helpful since they are really specific and tells you exactly how to make your paper more informative

feedbacks from my draft is really helpful

The one on one meeting time about my paper was very helpful for me to articulate my thoughts and understand what I need to do better.

Written comments on the google doc and in person meetings helped a lot, because prof. Long provided really detailed feedbacks.

In person discussions help guild me through the class and how I could improve

Comments on my writing were very helpful.

It was very helpful for me to go to office hours and get feedback directly from Prof. Long, she was extremely helpful in detailing what exactly I needed to do for specific assignments. She also gave very detailed feedback on all of our writing assignments, which was really helpful to improve the final product!

Most helpful part was the detailed comments prof. Long gave me while writing my research paper. She took the time to understand my paper fully by reading it multiple times, and gave me the constructive comments I needed to improve my writing.

In-person discussions were the most helpful, especially in the process of writing my papers. I was able to ask specific questions about my paper, and also ask for advice/support in the writing process better this way.

I really really appreciate Prof. Long's feedback on the midterm paper draft and all other assignments as this allowed me to improve on my draft since it was so detailed.

Prof. Long went a long way to make sure each student got personalized feedback on almost all of our writing assignments and discussion posts. She scheduled meetings with us and wrote us in-depth comments to help us improve upon our assignments.

In-person discussions were most helpful, as there was little room for interpretation of the instructors expectation and therefore provided a clear cut direction on how an assignment should proceed.

I think that feedback in terms of comments on the writing that i produced was especially helpful in improving my paper and understand the flaws that are within it as well as the in person discussions about concepts I didn't understand or things in my paper I knew weren't good but didn't know how to improve upon.

The shadow grade was a useful way to see how we were doing and all feedback was very thorough. It is clear that the instructor cares a lot about our growth and she was very available for any form of support. I also like that some assignments are graded for completion; it helps manage stress levels effectively.

In-person feedback was the most helpful because I could actively ask questions about the feedback and get an immediate response.

feedback on midterm and final paper drafts were clear and essential for improving these

Meeting with my professor

Discussions and Written comments were both extremely effective.

The student-student interactions were helpful because it helped build a little community within the class where everyone knew each other and we could ask each other for help. The student-instructor dynamics were also helpful in creating a positive learning environment because it made it really easy to talk about class topics and ask questions.

I found the learning environment as a very positive factor of this course. I felt willing to say my ideas and learn from my classmates throughout the course.

I think the many interactions with other students in open discussions along with the encouraged use of the whiteboards to write stuff down helped.

The small seminar style environment helped make speaking feel more comfortable.

The collaborative environment of the class when split into group made it easy to connect with other students and ask questions. However, collaborating on a whole class level scale was a bit challenging at times due to nervousness.

small group discussion is really helpful

The classroom environment was my favorite this semester. I always felt that my thoughts were welcomed and I always comfortable enough to participate in class discussions even though I'm a very shy person.

It's really good that Professor made it a positive learning environment and making it a safe ppl age to share opinion the students in this class are very supportive and the professor is very responsible and resourceful

I think I got very closed to my classmates from this small classroom setting.

Class dynamics is pretty chill, and everyone is actively engaging the class.

The enviroment was welcoming allowing for friendly discussion and learning enviroment

The learning environment was very collaborative and safe, I found it very helpful.

My peers and Prof. Long were both extremely supportive. Prof. Long dimmed the lights in the classroom because she knew I was light sensitive, and the Shan classroom eyes can hurt my eyes. I really appreciated all the support she provided!!

I thought the student led presentations (the 12 minute one) was a very helpful prelude to the final presentation. I was happy with the improvements I was able to make in my presentation skills, as I learned from my mistakes during the first presentation. Public speaking is one of my weaknesses as it is something I do not have much prior experience in and so the presentations really helped.

The learning environment was beneficial to my learning, it felt as though everyone was made sure to be included as a part of the class

The learning environment aided my learning because Prof. Long was a very very supportive professor and truly cared about her students. From daily check-ins of our mental health and remembering small tidbits of information about every single one of her students, Prof. Long treated us so well. She not only helped us learn more about economics, but she also encouraged us in other aspects of our academic life. The format of the class was amazing and encouraged a more relaxed classroom atmosphere where we felt like we could talk about anything with her as well as anything with our classmates and definitely made us closer with our peers.

Like I said earlier, she worked really hard from the beginning of the year to build a supportive and collaborative environment within the class. I know every single person in this class and have had multiple conversations with each one of them. When it comes to discussing topics or peer-reviewing each others writing, I have never felt awkward or uncomfortable because she build a setting in which we were all very supportive of one another. I have never been in a classroom that has been so willing to work with every single person in the class without a doubt, and it really comes down to how Prof. Long treated us and excepted to treat each other.

Nothing negatively affected my learning environment in this class.

I think that the learning environment was a very safe and understanding one where I felt safe to voice questions or go to office hours for help or clarification as well as I appreciated Prof. Long's care for me as a person and how I was doing and checking in on me as well through some of the more stressful times this year. I think that this caring mindset made it easy to ask questions and ask for help to encourage and improve my learning as well as improve the quality of writing and the presentations that I produced.

The classroom environment always felt very supportive from the instructor, but not all students seem to have the same level of engagement and support. However, Prof Long's attitude definitely helped to mitigate this.

Some students would continuously ask questions that only seemed loosely related to the material that was being lectured about which sometimes detracted from my learning.

I thought in class was great

It was a typical learning environment, Prof long tried to engage us more actively but the students weren't as responsive.

What would have improved your learning in this course? 18

I think getting more of an introduction to finding sources and writing research papers could have been helpful but I still felt prepared from the instruction.

I think if the readings were less dense it would have helped a lot.

I think that having more workshops for the paper will be best.

More small groups based work rather than individual or entire class organized work.

Taking economics course prior to this class

The course feels like it is a bit too much non-entry level information for an entry level course. Or it is too much information together that it throws me off sometimes.

I would have more time to prepare some of the presentation materials.

N/A

For our midterm paper, I was a bit confused on how an economic paper was structured. I also was having a few weeks with quite severe migraine attacks, so it was harder for me to come to class some days. I ended up getting an extension on the assignment and prof long was extremely helpful in providing support while I was feeling unwell and helping me understand and brainstorm for the assignment. So my lack of understanding could have very well been coming from my inability to attend some of the classes the week the class was learning how to write an economic paper.

My learning could be improved by maybe more supplementary information for the more nitty-gritty parts of economics including graphs.

There is genuinely not much that I would change about this course. I learned a lot about a topic I was interested in and had a generally great experience!

Nothing in the control of the instructor could be further improved in my experience.

I think maybe having a bit more like real world application during class time after immediately learning the material even if it's just like a very quick example so that I could kind of connect the ideas that we are learning to their real world meaning a bit better.

I would have liked to have office hours during a slightly different time. It also would have been nice to have more in class activities to complement the lectures.

More readings about real life applications of the topics we were learning about.

The course was comprehensive

The instruction on the papers, it felt very difficult to write

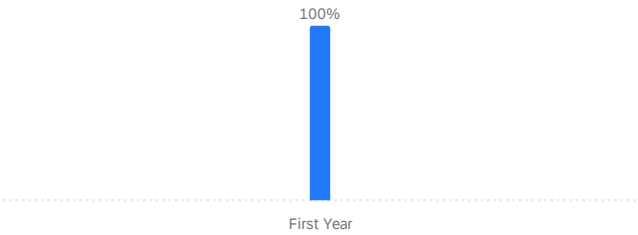

Doing more analyses of real world examples as a class. I wish we got into the nitty gritty of some social issues, as that was what I was looking forward to.
